It is important you should read the Conditions on your Policy relating to benefit.

One Policy only is allowed to be in force on the life of an adult, unless special permission be endorsed on such Policy for two assurances to be effected; and if at any time two Policies are effected on one Life without such permission, the Company will not be answerable for the sum assured by the second Policy.

Policy-holders should give notice to the Agent when they change their residence.

The neglect of a collector to call will not be admitted as an excuse for non-payment, therefore policy-holders being in arrear should bring or send their premiums to the Agent, or if any difficulty arise in communicating with him, application should be immediately made to "The Manager of the Industrial Branch," at the Chief Office, Holborn Bars, London.

In communicating with the Chief Office, the number of the Policy and name of the Agent should be stated.

Immediately a death occurs, take this book and the Policy to the Agent who collects the premium.
